Beauty and beholder

Irish novelist Margaret Wolfe Hungerford (1855-1897) popular throughout the English-speaking world during the years of late 19th Century for her light romantic works of fiction is said to be the first person to have used the expression beauty is in the eye of the beholder in one of her books published in 1878. The quote is also attributed to Greek Philosopher Plato (428-347 BC). The connection of beauty to the eyes of the beholder is much deeper than what it appears, given the feature of different persons feeling inclined to enjoy the sight of beautiful things. A mathematician finds beauty in theorems and problems while an artist finds it in exquisite work of art. A study by neurologists at the University College of London has revealed that whenever we find something beautiful, an area of brain just behind our eyes lights up. This area is known for pleasure, value and judgement. Further, another area of the brain has been shown to get activated when we think about someone we are in love with. The Bard of Stratford-upon-Avon has been quoted with the line Love is blind and lovers cannot see.

In the matter expressing the experience of delight about beauty in its widest meaning, poets seem to have outdone writers in prose, giving rise to the term prosaic to mean that words are inadequate to do full justice to beauty. India's Kalidasa, the classical Sanskrit writer, regarded as the greatest poet, living in the fifth century, stands out, excelling in the use of figure of speech simile. The work of the land's sculptors in transforming lifeless stones into figures of beauty, enduring for centuries doesn't need elaboration.

While human beings are endowed with the faculty of speech, toying with words in any language, spoken or not spoken and animals too are known to recognise their loved ones driven by the factor of attraction, the issue of protecting heritage buildings in Mysuru is currently engaging the advocates of their beauty and administration, even as the many structures are in a dilapidated state, excepting the famed Mysore Palace of 100-plus years vintage. Stones of different physical properties such as hardness and enduring the effect of exposure to sun and rain over long periods as the means of creating structures and sculptures of distant past have yielded place to cement, steel, sand and glass in creating structures and statues of our times, necessitating regular dose of maintenance, repair and replacement.

The English romantic poet, John Keats (1795- 1821), wrote a thing of beauty is a joy forever, an expression which the powers that be will do well to remind themselves while they are demolishing the city's heritage structures and chopping full-grown trees that stand for beauty of Mysuru.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Those of us who are used to Mumbai Suburban train travel know that to get a seat in the Virar Fast (Churchgate to Virar Fast local) it is not enough to just hop into the train as it pulls into Churchgate Station. The smarter commuters actually take an earlier train to a Station like Charni Road or Marine Lines, get into the train which will become the 'Virar Fast', at Marine Lines, travel to Churchgate and then smile gleefully when people rush into the compartment in Churchgate and find all the seat were long gone. I call this the Virar Fast phenomenon. I suppose the same will be true of the Kalyan Fast and the Borivili Fast as well. This adaptation of human behaviour towards shortages can be observed even in the most esoteric of settings. — Ambi Parameswaran in Business Standard.

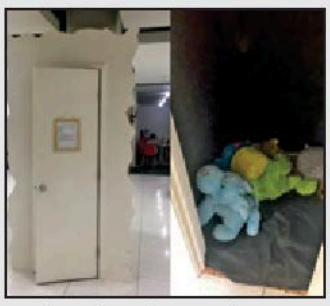
Used jacket hoods as cozy homes for stray cats

Seoul: A South Korean ad agency has partnered with a popular pet shop chain, to provide stray cats with comfortable shelters on cold winter and spring nights, by recycling old jacket hoods into cozy homes.

Known as Hood Houses, the ingenious cat cribs were created to raise awareness about South Korea's stray cat problem, and also promote positive interaction between people and homeless animals.

Pet Shop branches started collecting old jacket hoods and other padded clothing recently, which were then recycled into portable dome homes, fitted with a waterproof roof, a bed as well as bowls for food/water. Over a two-week period, over 2,000 Hood Houses were given away for free to customers who bought food for stray cats.

'Cry Closet' for stressed-out students



Salt Lake City: Students at the University of Utah who are stressed out can now let loose without having to worry about judgmental looks from their peers, thanks to a small 'cry closet' that allows them to cry in private.

With homework, tough exams and student debt as high as it is these days, college an get pretty stressful, and sometimes you just need to cry before getting back on the horse. But not everyone is comfortable sobbing in public, so the University of Utah decided to help students let loose their emotions by installing a small cry room in the campus library.

Created by University of Utah student Nemo Miller, the cry closet is lined with a black interior, and features plush stuffed animals inside that students can hug and squeeze as they cry. Whether it's midterm exams or just having a bad day, students can cry in peace, at least for 10 minutes.

Sardar Patel's letter to Maharaja Sri Jayachamaraja Wadiyar

Sir,

It is heartening to note that as announced by the Prime Minister of India at the time of inaugurating the Statue of Unity, a Museum of Rulers is being established therein and the portrait of the last Maharaja of Mysore Sri Jayachamaraja Wadiyar will be displayed there (Star of Mysore dated Nov. 30).

I have already written about the special association of Sardar Patel with the Maharaja due to his extensive use of Mysore Dakota. When Mysore Constituent Assembly had its inaugural meeting on April 7, 1948, he sent the following message:

Hon'ble Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, Deputy Prime Minister, Dominion of India:

"Mysore State has been in the vanguard of progress both in spheres of administration and democratisation of Government. Those who laboured incessantly in the cause of Responsible Government in the past today find their labours amply rewarded. In the new Constituent Assembly they are seeing the fruition of their dreams and their ideals. Goodwill and support of the people and sacrifices made by you all have contributed to the success of prolonged efforts to achieve for Mysore, constitution of Responsible Government under the aegis of Ruler. It redounds to credit of late and present Ruler that they have always bowed to the will of the people and never failed to concede popular demands. May the Constituent Assembly which is meeting under such auspicious combination of circumstances and with so much fund of amity and goodwill be guided by wisdom and Statesmanship, and fashion a Constitution worthy of the people and traditions of Mysore and which would serve as a model and example for other States. I send you all my warmest congratulations and best wishes."

Thus Mysore's role in the evolving India from being a Dominion in 1947 to a Sovereign Republic by 1950 is quite historic and significant.

I hope the Museum besides just displaying a six-foot portrait of the Maharaja will also record some of the pictures along with his messages.

Cabinet expansion after Belagavi Session: Ex-CM Siddharamaiah

CM H.D. Kumaraswamy to have six Parliamentary Secretaries — 3 each from Congress and JD(S)

Bengaluru, Dec. 6 (UNI)- The much awaited Cabinet expansion in Karnataka will take place on Dec. 22, just after the Belagavi Winter Session of the two-week State Legislature ends, former Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, who is also the Chairman of the Co-ordination Committee of the JD(S)-Congress coalition government, said yesterday.

The coalition set up is expecting that the announcement will soothe frayed tempers in the Congress camp, which has become restive after multiple postponements of expansion plans. The announcement came after the leaders received the nod from JD(S) supremo H.D. Deve Gowda and Congress President

Rahul Gandhi.

Speaking to media after chairing the Committee participated by senior leaders of both coalition partners, Siddharamaiah said "Along with the Cabinet expansion it was also decided to appoint MLAs from both parties to nominate for various Boards and Corporations".

Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy will also have six Parliamentary Secretaries, three each from Congress and the JD(S) legislators, he added. Informing that originally it was decided to go for expansion on Dec. 9. However, with the winter session of the Karnataka beginning from Dec. 10, expansion had to be postponed, he said

"We have also decided to nominate Chairpersons to 30 Boards and Corporations," Siddharamaiah said. He said that it had been decided to fill all the eight Cabinet berths (six from Congress quota and two from JD(S).

On the possible names of candidates to make into the Cabinet, Siddharamaiah said the names cannot be divulged now since it has to be discussed with Rahul Gandhi.

"No Congress or JD(S) MLA is resigning. The government is stable and will run for five years. Satish Jarakiholi has made it clear that he will not leave Congress," the former Chief Minister said when asked about rumours of some ruling party legislators, including Jarakiholi, resigning.

Free education for girls in Govt. Colleges

Bengaluru, Dec. 6 (UNI)- The State Government will bear the educational expenses of girl students pursuing Pre-University, graduation, and Post-Graduation courses in government colleges of the State, from the present academic year. This would help about 3.17 lakh students across the State and will cost Rs. 95 crore annually.

This decision was taken at a meeting of the State Cabinet yesterday. The free education norm, however, would not apply to professional courses. Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Krishna Byre Gowda said that 3.17 lakh students include 1.84 lakh in degree and Post-Graduation courses, and 1.33 lakh students in PU Colleges will benefit.

RTE quota: Now, children seeking admission in private schools under the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (RTE) Act quota will get the seat only if there are no government schools in their neighbourhood.

The Cabinet granted permission to amend certain rules related to admission procedures under the RTE Act which will now give priority to government schools over the private ones in admissions. Minister Krishna Byre Gowda said preference being given to private schools under the RTE Act had resulted in fewer enrolments in government schools. The government would notify private schools for admission under the Act in the areas where there are no government schools, he said.

Conversion of farmland: In a bid to help industries, the Cabinet decided to simplify procedures related to conversion of farmland for industrial purposes and reduced the time frame required for conversion to one month.

Minister Krishna Byre Gowda observed that purchase of land had become a challenge for industries owing to complex procedures involved in conversion of land use pattern of farmland for industrial purposes.

The present cumbersome system had paved the way for the role of middlemen, resulting in harassment to farmers and inordinate delay of more than a year for industries, he said.

Now, a single-window clearance scheme would be established for conversion of land for industries. Under the new system, being operated by the Revenue Department, the authorities concerned are to grant permission for land conversion within a month after receiving application.

If they do not give permission within month, it would be deemed as granted unless the authorities specify the exact reason for denying permission, the Minister said.

Incentive to films screening tourist places in State

Movies to be graded by Expert Committee; Money to range between Rs.1 crore & Rs.2.5 crore

Bengaluru, Dec.6 (UNI)- In a major decision to promote Tourism sector in Karnataka, the Cabinet has decided to dole-out attractive incentive scheme to film producers, screening places of tourist importance in the State.

Briefing newsmen after the Cabinet meeting here yesterday, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Krishna Byre Gowda said that the incentive would be given to those films which depict places of tourist attractions in Karnataka that will result in more flow of tourists. The amount of incentive varies between Rs.1 crore to over Rs.2.5 crore after awarding grading by an Expert Committee.

"We have seen tourist destinations abroad attracting visitors after having been featured in movies. This policy is aimed at promoting tourist destinations in Karnataka by providing incentives to filmmakers," Gowda said.

Films that score 90 and above (Category A) will get an incentive of up to Rs.2.5 crore while those scoring 75-90 (Category B) will get up to Rs.1 crore.

The Expert Committee, headed by the Additional Chief Secretary, will evaluate films on a scale of 100. The parameters used for evaluation are the percentage of tourist destinations showcased, filming at tourist spots, reflecting Karnataka's culture and heritage among others.

He said that a scheme has been designed to this effect carefully to prevent any misuse of the Government incentive. "A minimum production of cost of Rs.5 crore of each film would be the basic criterion for the eligibility to award incentive which was being given to promote our tourism destinations in the wide screens of commercial films. There is no restriction on the language of the film," he added.

The Government wants to provide the incentive to at least 8 films and has earmarked Rs.12.5 crore for it. This includes three films under Category A and five under Category B. Gowda clarified that the policy would not result in relaxing restrictions applicable in forest areas and protected sites. "Filmmakers will still need to get necessary clearances for shooting," he said.

There is no language barrier for the incentive scheme as the State is looking at other language films to popularise its tourism spots beyond Karnataka.

Ballal

In a recent Bunts Convention at Mysuru, I was intrigued by a photograph of many women wearing a typical Udupi flower, 'sooji mallige,' a unique flower with a distinct fragrance. Even the way this flower is worn by women is special. Quite expensive but available in Mysuru too, thanks to the unofficial courier service of Durgamba and other night bus service. Hundreds of items like food and fresh vegetables are transported by these bus services across the cities, a yeoman service indeed and much cheaper and faster than the regular courier service !

Udupi for long has been associated with vegetarian cuisine. The masala dosa has been internationally acclaimed as must have dish before one dies ! Of course, the founders of two major vegetarian hotel chains, Woodlands and Dasprakash Group claim that masala dosa has been invented by them! The humble dosa has been fusioned and about 100 varieties of dosas are available in the market. Noodle dosa, pizza dosa, badam halwa dosa and some enterprising people have started the non-vegetarian variety too. For example, keema dosa, chicken tikka dosa. I am not sure who is the real inventor of this dish but he must be definitely turning in his grave in disgust at the confusion in the name of fusion.

The humble idli [two States, Tamil Nadu and Karnataka claiming that they have invented this] has been declared as the healthiest and safest food for patients all over the world by WHO.

Folklore has it that Udupi had been blessed by Lord Krishna to be the caterers of the world since Udupi Cooks took care of the catering of Mahabharata war. How much of this is true? Your guess is as good as mine. Of all the avatars of Lord Vishnu, why Krishna is the reigning deity of Udupi? Could not find a satisfactory answer.

How this city got its name? Well, "Udu" means Stars and "Pa" means the Lord. Since the Moon is considered the Lord of the Stars, the town got its name as Udupa, which now has become Udupi. A popular folklore story: The Moon was once cursed by one of the sons of Brahma, Daksha Prajapathi, the King of the Earth. Moon performed a penance to Lord Shiva, who pleased by his penance appeared before him and freed him from the curse. Udupi is the place where Moon is supposed to have performed his penance and got the blessings of Shiva. That is the reason Lord Shiva, also known as Chandramouleshwara, has his temple next to the main deity of Lord Krishna. Another popular belief is that Udupi has been created by Sage Parashurama and not Vishvakarma. Hence, majority of the population are Brahmins in this town and the pujas done following all rituals.

Udupi for long has been associated with vegetarian cuisine. Just 3-km from Udupi is the city of Manipal, with pubs, cafes and fashion. Manipal University is a respected University for imparting quality education and one can see international students wandering around in that city. Absolute contrast to Udupi which is still steeped in myths, traditions and conventions. Yakshagana, a traditional dance-drama, performed from dawn to dusk, is still very popular. Several families believe that they are protected by demi-Gods called 'bhoota' and hence perform a 'kola' every year to appease them.

Another unique feature of this town is the free lunch provided to all devotees every day. Approximately 2,000 people are fed in three halls inside the temple. Pure vegetarian, "sattvic" food is served. What is sattvic? Well, sattvic cooking is based on ayurveda and yoga literature. Meaning "sattva" [quality]. In this system, those foods having energy increasing capacities are called "rajasic" and those food which decrease our energies are called "tamasic." Locally grown seasonal vegetables and fruits, whole grains, unpolished lentils etc., are used. It is also a fact that there are some unique and distinct vegetables grown in this area like ladies finger, southe [a type of cucumber], alasande, kempu arave [a red spinach], gulla [a variety of brinjal]. They just taste different. Wholesome quality food, just like the langars in up North, this free meal is offered by the temple Mutts to the general public with generous donations from the devotees.

A typical Udupi food is fiery red in colour because of a typical chilli called byadige menasu. The cooks add a little of guntur chilli to make it little spicy. The food is also typically sweetish because of liberal use of jaggery. Coconut, of course, is liberally used in all the dishes. When in town, do not miss the famous goli bajje of the Mitra Samaja, a small restaurant near the temple. For breakfast, many a restaurants serve the famous moode, a variation of idli, a local speciality.

There is a very famous restaurant called Diana at Udupi, owned by one Mohandas Pai. It is said that one day his chef, due to shortage of a variety of ice-cream, concocted a dessert called 'gadbad' using 3 scoops of assorted ice-cream, jelly, dry fruits, in a large glass and gave to his guests. Just like the famous Mysore pak, a freak invention, this was so much liked by his guests, Pai decided to put it in the menu. Now this dessert is being served in ice-cream parlours all over Karnataka!

Of course, for all the Krishna bhakts, Udupi stands for the Krishna Mutts, the most important temple in the centre of the city. This was founded by the Vaisnavite Saint Sri Madvacharya in the 13th century. The daily puja and the administration of this temple is managed by the pontiffs of the Ashta Mathas of Udupi [8 Mutts] on a rotation basis. This ritual called 'Paryaya' is also celebrated grandly. Each Mutt gets this privilege for two years. The Ashta Mathas in the city are Pejawara, Puthige, Palimaru, Adamaru, Sodhe, Kaniyur, Shirur and Krishnapura.

Another uniqueness of the Krishna temple is that the deity does not face the pond as in most of the temples but exact opposite. It is said that Saint Kanakadasa was denied entry to the temple and Lord Krishna turned 360 degrees and a window opened up to ensure that Kanaka got the darshana of the Lord. Even now one can get a direct darshana of Lord Krishna if he or she stands near the window. This window is called "Kanakana Kindi."

Just 3-km from Udupi is the city of Manipal, a town with pubs, cafes and fashion. Manipal University is a respected University all over the world for imparting quality education and one can see lot of international students wandering around in that city. Absolute contrast to Udupi which in spite of being just 3-km from Manipal, is still steeped in myths, traditions and conventions. Yakshagana, a traditional dance-drama, performed from dawn to dusk, is still very popular. What is unique about this dance-drama? The music and the dialogue are improvised depending on the skills of the actor! Several families believe that they are protected by demi-Gods called bhoota and hence perform a 'kola' every year to appease them. The main dancer normally get possessed by the demi-God and starts acting like an oracle. Village/family disputes are referred and the oracle judgements accepted.

Snakes are also revered and in rural Udupi, it is common to sight snakes slithering along the houses. The members of the household do not panic but they just go about their work as usual, on a snake sighting. Unlike the city folks who instantly call up Snake Shyam! Rural houses normally have Nagakatte and a Nagamandala is performed every year to appease this God too! It is not uncommon to see some men start writhing like snakes during this ritual.

Udupi, a city with a separate dialect Tulu, is a paradox. Modern and at the same time ancient and ritualistic. Being a coastal city, it is humid and hence one tends to sweat a lot during day time. Just like Mysuru, Udupi too is centrally located in Dakshina Karnataka. Surrounded by many a famous temples like Mookambika, Anegudde, Karkala etc., it is ideal to stay in Udupi and go visiting temples around this city. Excellent roads, transportation and hotels also. For lovers of the sea, one can visit Malpe, just a few kms outside the city. The city centre has hardly changed in the last 30 years but if one stands in the middle of the town near the temple, you get the feeling of a temple town. A must-see in anyone's itinerary for the sheer variety it offers.

Kodava Culture, Yakshagana find place at Kannur Airport

Mysuru-based Charu Art Gallery uses Mix Media concept to depict Kodava tradition

Kannur, Dec. 6 (BCT)- Artistic creations at Kannur International Airport are depicting cultural traditions of Malabar and Kannur. The airport authorities have now added two more pieces of art representing the cultural heritage of Karnataka.

While one metal art picture represents Kodava culture, the other depicts Yakshagana, the traditional art form of Dakshina Kannada. These pictures have adorned the walls of the Airport along with those depicting the cultural heritage of Kerala, especially the North Malabar region.

The Kannur International Airport Limited (KIAL) is scheduled to be inaugurated on Dec. 9. Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan and Union Minister for Civil Aviation Suresh Prabhu would jointly light the lamp inside the terminal building, marking the inauguration.

According to Airport authorities, it was decided to give Karnataka due consideration, especially Kodagu because of its proximity to the airport, though it is geographically part of another State. Virajpet in South Kodagu is just 58 kms away from the Airport while Madikeri, the headquarters of Kodagu district, is around 90 kms away.

The metal art work on Kodagu culture was prepared by the artists of Charu Art Gallery, a Mysuru-based art consultancy. In the picture, a woman clad in traditional Kodava attire holds a cup of coffee while a man (also clad in Kodava attire) holds a gun and wears a dagger. The background of the picture features coffee beans and the frame also includes birds and elephants.

"The coffee mug in the hands of the woman, dagger and gun in the hands of the man, and coffee beans in the background symbolise Kodava culture. The birds and elephants represent the wildlife of the region. The picture is finished in mild steel, stainless steel copper. This picture has been approved for display by the Department of Kannada and Culture, Government of Karnataka," said A.N. Bheemesh, Managing Partner, Charu Art Gallery.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Bheemesh said that 'Mix Media' concept has been implemented while depicting Kodava culture. "Traditional art is normally depicted at all airports and even the Kannur Airport has them. But this is for the first time Mix Media concept has been used. Other symbols used in the art include Talacauvery Ugamasthana (birth place) of River Cauvery and a representation of flora and fauna. In all, the art work depicts the entire mood of Kodagu," he added.

Bheemesh revealed that a team of nine artists worked for over two to three months to come up with the design and implement the same. "The art work, 38-feet wide and 10-feet high, was specially commissioned by the Kannur Airport authorities and they were interested in Kodagu art due to the district's proximity to Kannur," he added.

The second art work is a giant picture of Yakshagana, the traditional theatre art form of Karnataka. The picture in a 9-metre high and 6-metre wide frame is a creation by a team of mural artists led by well-known mural painter K.R. Babu.

"The picture is drawn in mural style using traditional colours such as Indian red, yellow ochre and sap green. Black and blue are also used in this picture. Perhaps, it is the first time that a picture of Yakshagana, that too in huge size, is drawn in the traditional mural style of Kerala," said Babu, the former Head of the Department of Mural Painting, Malayala Kala Gramam, Mahe. Murals by Babu also adorn the walls of Kozhikode International Airport and Pazhassi Smrithi Mandapam.

S. Gurumurthy delivers JSS Endowment Lecture

Kiran Kumar, Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji, Chartered Accountant S. Gurumurthy and industrialist R. Guru look on.

"The reason why we have not reached the global level is because of the local issues that has bounded us and has not freed us from achieving international standards," Gurumurthy said and added "if we have to reach such standards then what is required to do is a lot of research and to understand the global economy and literature, which we are sadly lacking."

However, in spite of these challenges if we look within we have the examples of entrepreneurs in Gujarat and Punjab's Ludhiana where even though people are not well-educated they have managed to export their products in large quantities.

"A Gujarati entrepreneur who is just a fifth standard pass has been very successful in his business while in other parts of the country though the people are better educated they are non-performers," he pointed out.

Hence, what is required is broad thinking, focus on science and technology and moving away from sticking to dharmic traditions. "If we follow certain basic principles then we can certainly be on par with rich economies like China, Russia, Japan, America and England and match their economic growth," the noted columnist said.

Father of the Nation Mahatma Gandhi always said when he saw a farmer working in the field during his visit to different parts of the country after his return from South Africa that unless the last farmer and the downtrodden's lives improved, the country cannot claim to have progressed.

Even thinkers like Karl Marx and Max Weber always felt that unless the educated are given employment then the country can never progress. Hence, one should concentrate on the skill development, entrepreneurship and see that the GDP of the country's economy improves, he said.

On the occasion, a book titled 'Bahyakasha Tantrajnana Mattu Samajika Anvaya' by author and former Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) Chairman Dr. A.S. Kiran Kumar was released by Corporate Director and CSR Consultant from Chennai R. Rajalakshmi, who also spoke about the book.

Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji graced the occasion. NR Group Chairman R. Guru presided. JSS Mahavidyapeetha Executive Secretary Dr. C.G. Betsurmath welcomed and spoke about the importance of the Golden Endowment Lecture.

JSS Law College Chief Executive Prof. K.S. Suresh proposed a vote of thanks. JSS cultural troupe's Roopa Guruprasad and Vinutha rendered the invocation.

Addressing the gathering, Minister G.T. Devegowda (GTD) said that the responsibility of building Smart Cities across the country rests with the builders. "The Centre has floated the idea of Smart Cities and the onus lies on builders, CREDAI and the Builders Association of India to make the smart cities a reality," he said.

Giving a pep talk to builders, GTD said that many layouts built these days were not up to the mark. "Most of the layouts deviate from the sanctioned plan and there is no clarity in construction completion and handing over possession to consumers. "This makes consumers lose trust in builders. When the KRS Dam and many structures in Mysuru region built by the Wadiyars have still stood the test of time, we must have a rethink on our quality of construction," he opined.

Union Minister of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship Anant Kumar Hegde, who was to inaugurate the Summit, did not attend.

It is CREDAI's second National India Summit (NIS). Hundreds of developers and Real Estate players from across the country are attending the Summit, the theme of which is 'Emerging Cities, India's Future.'

Sessions including 'Trust Building', 'Decade Ahead', 'Technology and Skilling' and 'Happiness Index' are being held at the Summit.

By organising the Summit, CREDAI aims to realise the true potential of the sector from non-metro cities to increase their contribution to the Indian Real Estate industry.

CREDAI Members from across India, non-CREDAI Members of builders and developers, contractors, Civil Engineers, ranking and Housing Finance companies, materials suppliers, professional, CAs, advocates, members of Federation of Karnataka Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FKCCI) and Members of National Real Estate Development Council (NAREDCO) and Builders Associations are attending the Summit.

Balakrishna Hegde, Chairman, Conference Committee, NIS 2018, K. Sriram, Joint Secretary, CREDAI, National, Dr. V.K. 28-year-old Manoj Kumar from Mysuru killed in cylinder blast at Indian Institute of Science, Bengaluru

Bengaluru/ Mysuru, Dec. 6 (RK&KS) - A pall of gloom has descended over the family of 28-year-old Manoj Kumar, who was killed in a suspected cylinder blast inside a laboratory of Hypersonic and Shock Wave Research Centre inside the prestigious and high-security Indian Institute of Science (IISc) campus in Bengaluru yesterday afternoon.

Manoj Kumar was the son of Prof. K. Prakash, retired Principal of JSS College on Ooty Road and a resident of JSS Layout, 1st Stage on Rajkumar Road near Kalyanagiri in city. The family is yet to come to terms with the tragedy which snatched away a young life and a brilliant research scholar.

The lab had four employees interning with Superwave Technology Private Limited working on an experiment reportedly dealing with highly pressurised helium, hydrogen, nitrogen and oxygen gases. The injured are identified as Karthik Shenoy, Naresh Kumar and Athulya Uday Kumar.

Manoj Kumar, who recently got married, died on the spot as he was reportedly working next to the cylinder which exploded. Such was the impact that his body was reportedly thrown 20 feet away, Police said.

"There was no major fire after the blast but it seems it was quite powerful as the victim's body was torn into two halves. He took the full brunt of the blast," said a senior Police official at the spot. It is suspected that it was a hydrogen cylinder which exploded due to some variations in the gas pressure. The condition of all three injured are said to be critical and require surgical intervention at the M.S. Ramaiah Memorial Hospital, Bengaluru.

As the news of the blast trickled in yesterday, Manoj's parents left to Bengaluru along with some relatives to fetch the mortal remains. The body was brought to Mysuru at 1.30 am after all the legal formalities were completed and since then there was a regular flow of visitors to the house. Relatives and residents of the area were seen consoling the parents and wife Anusha, who could barely hold back their tears.

Relatives and family members told Star of Mysore that Manoj Kumar was a talented guy and since his childhood, he was interested in science and research. "We will miss the young scientist in our family," a family member said.

"The injured have suffered multiple fractures, deep facial lacerations and also splinter injuries. The victims were setting up an experiment involving supersonic shockwaves. A mixture of hydrogen and oxygen was used for the process which is very combustible," the Police said.

It was pointed out that the experimental set up triggered a small spark which came in contact with the hydrogen and oxygen mixture which resulted in the powerful explosion.

Manoj Kumar, who studied from first standard to 10th at JSS Public School, completed his PUC at Marimallapa's College. He later joined Sri Jayachamarajendra College of Engineering (SJCE) where he completed his BE and M.Tech. Manoj, who got married to Anusha, a Software Engineer in November 2017, was staying at Manyata Tech Park in Bengaluru.

The last rites of Manoj were performed this afternoon at the Veerashaiva Burial Grounds at Lalithadripura in Mysuru, according to family sources.

Organic carbon content in soil is diminishing at an alarming rate in State: Soil Scientist

Mysuru, Dec. 6 (MK&KS) - "The content of organic compound in soil which is important for agriculture is fast diminishing in the State because of rampant use of chemical fertilizers and pesticides," opined Dr. Rajanna, Soil Scientist, KVK, Suttur.

Delivering a talk as part of World Soil Day, organised at Mysuru Zoo yesterday, Dr. Rajanna said that there was a deficiency of 55 per cent in zinc content in the soil in the State which can lead to increase in the number of people with diabetes who consume food cultivated in these areas and added that due to continuous efforts, the zinc level in Mysuru was above normal.

Elaborating on the variety of soils, Dr. Rajanna said 39 per cent of soil was acidic, 58 per cent normal and 3 per cent alkaline and warned against the use of groundwater from places with saline soil besides asking people to avoid borewell water in such places. "After harvesting crops, natural manure should be used to protect the soil which in turn will help farmers reap good crops."

WORD OF THE DAY

Ritzy

Pronunciation: RIT-see.
Meaning: Impressively or ostentatiously fancy or stylish.

Origin: César Ritz (1850-1918) earned worldwide renown for the luxurious hotels bearing his name in London and Paris. (The Ritz-Carlton hotel company is a contemporary descendant of these enterprises.) Although they were by no means the first to cater to high-end clients, Ritz's hotels quickly earned reputations as symbols of opulence. F. Scott Fitzgerald, a writer who often focused on the fashionably wealthy, titled one of his short stories "The Diamond as Big as the Ritz," and the phrase "to put on the ritz" means "to indulge in ostentatious display." The adjective ritzy, describing either something fancy or stylish, or the haughty attitudes of the wealthy elite, first checked into the English language in 1920.
Example: I don't appreciate your ritzy advice about whom I "should" associate with.

THE ODD WORD

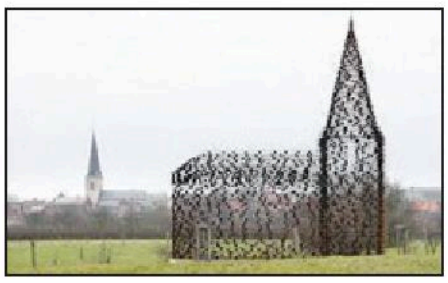
Rubiginous

Rust-coloured

IDIOM OF THE DAY

Read between the lines

Meaning: To try to understand what someone is really feeling or implying from what they say or write when they haven't openly stated the truth.



Origin: This idiom originated from people using invisible ink to hide secret messages in letters, often in the military. They would write a normal, harmless letter in ordinary ink and then use invisible ink to write a secret message literally between the lines of the letter. To see the real message, the recipient would have to read between the lines.
Example: She said she could afford it, but reading between the lines I don't think she has enough money.
